DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT GREEN RIDGE TUESDAY NIGHT

Four Store Rooms Are Swept By Flames In Heart of Town

LOSS IS ESTIMATED AT ABOUT $10,000

One of Structures Destroyed Was an Old Landmark

Green Ridge's populace was aroused about 11 o'clock Tuesday night when four business buildings in the heart of the town caught fire and were destroyed. The estimated losses to the buildings and contents including the old two-story family homestead of the late James S. Ream and its contents was given as close to $10,000.

Two of the store rooms were occupied by E. J. Sims, who operated a grocery store and meat market. Another store room was used by Fred Ream, owner of the building, while the store room on the north end of the string of store rooms was occupied by Floyd Brownfield, who had a grocery. Brownfield moved into the building last Monday.

The fire of unknown origin was discovered by the night watchman of Green Ridge, James Myers, who said the flames were at the rear part of the Sims grocery. Before aid could be summoned to fight the flames, they had gained such headway that all volunteers could do was save merchandise in the Brownfield store, and some merchandise from the Sims building.

Home Was Destroyed
Miss Maud Ream, sister of Postmaster Fred Ream, and her nephew William Henry Ream, were aroused after the fire had gained considerable headway and they saved only part of the furniture in their home while all of Miss Ream's clothing was destroyed. Mrs. Hattie Reed, about 80 years old, was awakened and taken from the home and most of her furniture was saved.

Sparks from the fire were blown across the town and set fire to the roof of the residence of Mayor E. K. Moffett, located in the extreme southeast part of the town. This fire was discovered by William Trone who with the aid of neighbors succeeded in putting the fire out. Considerable damage resulted to the roof of the home.

Two large plate glass windows in the building of the H. H. Ream garage and in the R. E. Bennett general merchandise store were broken from the heat. A large window in the building where the post office is located was also broken. The extreme heat also blistered the paint on the woodwork on the outside of the buildings. They are located directly across from the destroyed buildings.

Mr. Ream this morning stated the loss to the buildings and to the family homestead would amount to nearly $5,000, which is only partly covered by insurance. Mr. Sims reported his losses would amount to more than $3,000, which are partly covered by insurance.

The losses to Mr. Brownfield's fixtures and merchandise would amount to several hundred dollars, but an estimate could not be made until an inventory could be made of the merchandise saved.

No estimate was given on articles stored in the vacant store room by Mr. Ream, which he stated were not insured.

Was Old Landmark
The building where Mr. Sims was located was an old Green Ridge landmark. It was built 65 years ago and had few tenants. The first to have the building was Charles Denny, aged resident of the Green Ridge community, who operated a dry goods store and general merchandise business. Later James S. Ream and Sons had a drug store in the building for several years after which D. E. Lyles, now of Sedalia operated a grocery store, then Joe Woods had a grocery in the building and Mr. Sims was the last to have a business there.

The Ream home was built many years ago and practically joined the other buildings.

Green Ridge's fire fighting equipment consists of a small truck which had chemical tanks, but was useless against the flames.

Mr. Sims has opened in another building owned by Mr. Ream as has Mr. Brownfield.

ROBBER SUSPECT TO LITTLE ROCK JAIL

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 15.—Herbert Munger, 39, arrested at the county jail today transfer to Kansas City to face trial on a charge of robbing the Sedalia Bank and Trust Company, Sedalia, Mo., in 1935.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 15.—Herbert Munger, 39, arrested at Lutherville Monday by federal agents in connection with the Sedalia Bank and Trust Company robbery March 12, 1935, was committed to jail here Tuesday in default of $3,000 bond following arraignment before U. S. Commissioner Charles Jacobson.

REFUSE DELAY IN PATROL AGAINST PIRACY BY 'SUBS'

Nine Power Agreement Is To Be In Effect at Once

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Britain and France refused today to delay their patrol of the Mediterranean against submarine piracy because of Italian objections to the Nyon accord and announced that nine-power agreement would go into effect at once.

British and French warships already in the Mediterranean were reported authoritatively to have been scouring the Mediterranean seas for undersea marauders without waiting for reinforcements.

Informed sources said, however, that the door was not closed to Italian participation in the patrol if Italy wishes to offer constructive suggestions, although she has declined the invitation to join the Nyon arrangement.

While Britain and France, sharing responsibility for the entire Mediterranean patrol, were said by informed sources to be anxious to avoid hurting Italian prestige in the Mediterranean, there were no indications in official circles of willingness to permit Italy to come in on a basis of full equality with the other two powers.

The Nyon accord delegated to Italy the patrol of the Tyrrhenian sea, and Italians objected that this relegated Rome to a minor role.

Mobilize 200 Warships
PARIS, Sept. 15.—France and Great Britain have mobilized nearly 200 warships in the Mediterranean in their hunt for marine marauders. Organized on a full war time footing, the combined fleet is to reach its maximum strength within a week when all additions ordered for patrol duty arrive.

Working in closest collaboration, commanders of the British and French warships have laid plans to shift the patrol fleet's weight quickly to any section where trouble might arise—thus backing with armed might the nine-power anti-piracy agreement reached at Nyon, Switzerland.

France has ordered a special fleet of 24 destroyers to the Mediterranean pirate hunt, and naval officials said the full French fleet in those waters would back the extraordinary patrol, if necessary.

Detailed patrol plans were mapped today in a conference at Oran, Algeria, between commanders of the French and British fleets—Vice Admiral Jean Esteva and Admiral Sir Dudley Pound.

Appointment of Vice Admiral Esteva, inspector general of the French Naval forces, as chief of the French anti-piracy patrol was announced in a communiqué that also disclosed the addition of bombing planes and aircraft to the sea searchers.

The plane transport commandant Teste, carrying scout planes and bombers, and a further detachment of ten scouts were assigned to the French division of the international patrol.

TROUBLE BETWEEN RUSSIA AND JAPAN SEEMS BREWING

Soviets Declared To Be Unofficially Giving Aid To China

EYE IS KEPT ON THE MOVES OF HITLER

Russian Army With Reserves Believed To Total 11,500,000

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—People are beginning to recognize that trouble between Russia and Japan is possible, if not probable, as the outgrowth of the latter's invasion of China.

It is not pleasing to the Muscovites to have their front yard made a camping ground for the Japanese trailer.

Hirozo Mori, Japanese financial mogul, has called attention to the possibility by stating that his country intends to go through with the Chinese campaign "even if a third power enters it."

When the great Mori speaks, the winds are stirred and listen. He didn't name the "third power," but he didn't have to, because he could mean only Russia.

Such words bear weight when coming from anybody like Mori, who must be one of the main financial backers for Japanese military adventures. However, almost any Russian or Japanese will tell you that the two countries are slated to fight sooner or later. They have been openly arming against each other for years.

"Fight Japan in Due Course"
Not long ago I asked a distinguished Russian about the prospects. "Oh, yes, we shall fight Japan in due course," he said. "But conditions are more peaceful now than they have been. Japan made a big mistake by not attacking us several years ago, when we were unprepared. Now we are ready for anybody, and the Japanese wouldn't have a ghost of a chance against us."

These remarks were made before the recent Japanese invasion of China. That has altered the complexion of things somewhat, although it would not be judicious at the moment to bet that a Russo-Japanese conflict was in the immediate offing.

Russia is reported to be giving aid to China unofficially, and the independent Chinese Communist armies are rushing to the aid of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. Still, the shrewd Japanese have taken no public note of these things. They don't want to.

A Japanese in high position told me the other day that his country would ignore unofficial Russian aid to the Chinese for the time being. There would be no war over this issue. Of course, he said, if Moscow

STUDY COTTON AS WAR IMPLEMENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Secretary Roper said today the commerce department was conducting a study to determine whether cotton should be classified as an implement of war and banned from export trade to the Far East.

At his press conference Roper told reporters cotton was used extensively for war purposes, but added an analysis would have to be made before a decision could be reached on whether to prohibit its movement.

Acquit Farmer of Murder
MARSHFIELD, Mo., Sept. 15.—A circuit court jury here today acquitted Noah Watts, 48-year-old farmer, of the murder of his cousin, E. D. "Dill" Watts, 52, last May in a fight over some farm machinery. Noah's attorneys pleaded he had acted in self defense.

F. D. R. REFUSES TO COMMENT ON ATTACK ON BLACK

President Says All He Knows Is What He Has Read In Newspapers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(P)—The furor aroused by allegations that Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black is a member of the Ku Klux Klan brought from President Roosevelt Tuesday the statement that "I know only what I have read in the newspapers."

The President replied negatively to a question whether he had received any information from any source that Black was a Klansman prior to the former Alabama senator's appointment to the supreme bench.

Mr. Roosevelt said further he did not know whether the justice department had investigated Black's qualifications for the supreme court post.

Opening his press conference with the remark he had anticipated reporters' questions, the chief executive read this statement, neatly typed out on a sheet of note paper:

"I know only what I have read in the newspapers. I note that the stories are running serially, and their publication is not complete. "Mr. Justice Black is in Europe, where undoubtedly he cannot get the full text of these articles. Until a such time as he returns, there is no further comment to be made."

When he reached the phrase that newspaper stories "are running serially," the President paused to tell newsmen with a smile that he had not said running serially.

Asked whether he thought the senate had exercised its full responsibility in confirming Black as a supreme court justice, the President picked up his prepared statement, and read again, "there is no further comment to be made."

Another question as to what would happen if it developed Black (Continued on Page Five)

CALL FOR RECORDS IN NINE PRECINCTS

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 15.—Roy Bretz of St. Joseph, Mo., foreman of the federal grand jury investigating vote fraud in the election of last November 3, called for records of nine precincts today. It was the largest order at one time since the investigation began.

There was no indication of an immediate report of indictment.

CATTLE SOAR TO $19.10 HUNDRED POUNDS IN CHICAGO
CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—(AP)—The price of cattle soared to $19.10 per hundredweight today, the highest in 17 years.

In January, 1920, the cattle market top here was $19.25. Early in 1919 cattle sold up to $21.50, which stands as an all time peak.

JAPAN TO REJECT ANY MEDIATION BY THE LEAGUE

GENEVA, Sept. 15.—Japan will refuse and ignore even friendly mediation by the League of Nations in the Sino-Japanese conflict, the Japanese minister to Switzerland disclosed today.

The Japanese envoy, Elji Amau, told the Associated Press Japan would brook no interference in the far eastern crisis.

His statement came as the League pondered what if any action to take on China's blistering indictment of Japanese "aggression" and her demand for a League condemnation of the Japanese military campaign.

"There is no question of Japan accepting a temporary League council seat in case she is invited to defend herself," the Japanese envoy declared decisively.

Amau admitted that though Japan is no longer a member of the League he is closely following developments during the assembly session at which China's delegate, Dr. Wellington Koo, today made a denunciatory appeal.

Officially Amau is in Geneva in his capacity as director of the Japanese Geneva bureau to handle international conferences.

(In Tokyo the Japanese government ordered Amau to refute Chinese charges of aggression, but a foreign office spokesman said he had been given no detailed instructions.)

(He may "at his own discretion" make an unofficial statement to the league," the spokesman declared, adding that League action would only "aggravate" the Sino-Japanese crisis.)

"Life and Death Question"
"The question of Eastern Asia is to Japan a question of life and death," Amau said. "Peace is necessary there, but peace is threatened by two elements:

"First, the Chinese government and Kuomintang (Chinese Nationalist party) have been carrying out an anti-Japanese policy with anti-Japanese education among the children and soldiers in China."

SPARING LIVES OF NONCOMBATANTS DEMAND MADE

Naval Commanders Insist Gunners Offered Protection

CHINESE HALT THE JAPANESE ADVANCE

New Fears In Foreign Settlements at Shanghai Over Cholera

SHANGHAI, Sept. 15.—Naval commanders of the United States and four other western powers demanded today that both Chinese and Japanese anti-aircraft gunners take immediate steps to spare the lives of "innocent non-combatants."

The urgent request of American Admiral Harry E. Yarnell and the other neutral naval commanders went forward while Chinese, in the face of wave after wave of Japanese anti-aircraft gunners take immediate steps to spare the lives of "innocent non-combatants."

Far to the north the whole might of 125,000 Japanese troops and their modern equipment was thrown into the long-bogged offensive against a 100-mile battle line. This campaign, aimed at subjugation of the rich provinces north of the Yellow river, holds the real military importance of the whole undeclared war.

Halt Japanese Advance
On the altered Shanghai front it became apparent that the Chinese had succeeded in three days of orderly withdrawal in establishing well prepared positions that have halted the Japanese advance just inland from the main city.

But a Japanese spokesman announced that his forces now were preparing a general attack on Chinese positions along the Tientsin-Pukow and Peiping-Hankow railways, the most important lines running from the Yangtze valley to the north.

Yarnell and the other foreign commanders repeated their strong warning to the Japanese and Chinese armies to cease the reckless firing over foreign warcraft in the harbor that is endangering not only the lives aboard the warships but the densely populated foreign settlements.

Within the settlement itself new fears of the spread of the cholera outbreak were felt. There were 654 cases today and the first British death was reported. The victim was Private Thomas Brown of the Loyal North Lancashire regiment.

The dread plague now affects 649 Chinese and five foreigners in the French concession and international settlement alone. No attempt has been made to estimate the number stricken outside the foreign districts but it is believed to be many times greater because of the terrible condition among Chinese refugees.

May Return For Clothes
Hundreds of Americans and foreigners who evacuated the Hongkew and Yangtze war zone at the outbreak of hostilities with only their summer clothes were permitted to reenter the areas for a period of four days to get winter clothes, blankets and bedding, a Japanese embassy spokesman announced.

WISDOM WARNS ON BRANCH BANKING

By The Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 15.—Problems of major interest to 150 bankers gathered here today for the annual meeting of group seven of the Missouri Bankers Association were the Frazier-Lenke bill, branch banking, service charges, and competition from government lending agencies.

Retiring President C. A. Wisdom of Green Ridge, Mo., warned that many small banks in Missouri are in danger of closing if they do not institute service charges, as they are operating at a loss.

WIDE TEMPERATURE RANGE TUESDAY

A range of 37 degrees in temperature was officially recorded here Tuesday at the local weather station, 711 West Broadway, in charge of Mrs. George H. Trader.

The high for Tuesday was 89 degrees and the low 52, which shows a greater variance than for many months.

A year ago today the high temperature was 97 degrees and the low 72. The unusually hot summer of 1936 was then moving into its final stages.

FORBIDS SHIPS OF U. S. TO CARRY ARMS TO ORIENT

President Roosevelt Invokes a Partial Embargo Tuesday

(By The Associated Press)
Here is the unofficial, but authoritative, Chinese and Japanese reaction to President Roosevelt's partial embargo on arms shipments to the far east.

China: Pessimism, largely because Chinese thought it was "a departure from America's one-time interest in justice and right;" because they believed it favored Japan, which has less need or arms imports. However, the Chinese saw little practical effect of the embargo. China has established her arms credits elsewhere.

Japan: "It means the United States is determined not to become entangled," but, Japanese believed, it will have no great effect on Japan. Some thought it might eventually prove a much heavier blow to China.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Maritime commission officials worked swiftly to carry out a partial embargo ordered by President Roosevelt on arms shipments to China and Japan.

The full commission was summoned to a special session to consider whether it will intercept the American freighter Wichita, en route from Baltimore to China with a cargo of 19 airplanes, as the first application of the new rule.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(P)—President Roosevelt invoked last night a partial embargo on shipments of arms and munitions to the Far Eastern war zone.

After conferring with Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Joseph Kennedy, chairman of the maritime commission, the chief executive issued a formal statement announcing that no merchant vessels owned by this government would be permitted to transport such articles to (Continued on Page Five)

LEWIS HAS CHAT WITH PRESIDENT

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, said after a White House call today he had "a very pleasant conference with the President."

"We talked over a number of matters of mutual interest to the President and myself," the heavy-set, bushy-browed labor leader said.

Asked whether his recent speech, interpreted by some as rebuking the President, had been mentioned, Lewis said he had "no further comment."

STEPS TAKEN ON NEW UNDERPASS EAST OF SEDALIA

Contract Awarded For Construction To St. Louis Company

OTHER AWARDS ON HIGHWAY WORK

Road Improvements To Be Made In Cooper and Benton Counties

Primary work to obtain rights from the Public Service Commission to construct a new underpass at the Missouri Pacific railroad on highway 50 just east of the city limits, has started with the filing of an application by the state highway department and the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. with the commission.

The contract for the construction of the underpass and new roadway was given to the Trinidad Asphalt Manufacturing Co., of St. Louis by the highway department at a cost of $34,848.71.

Before actual work can be started on this construction concurrence must be obtained from the federal government inasmuch as the highway is a federal highway. It is expected the government will concur with this improvement within a short time after the public service commission has granted permission for the change.

At present the underpass is narrow and two cars can hardly pass making it one of the most hazardous highway passing points between Kansas City and St. Louis. The plans for the new underpass call for a much wider one to be constructed.

Other Road Contracts
The highway department also let several other contracts for road improvements in neighboring counties. In Benton county on county highway S-A, the Don P. Pry Construction Co., Monett, was awarded the contract to grade and gravel 236 miles at a cost of $12,394.15, and on county highway S-E, the Joseph L. Pohl Construction Co., Nevada, was awarded the contract to gravel 6.75 miles of road at a cost of $5,534.50.

County highway S-E Cooper county, 6.79 miles of road will be graveled by the Mike Haase Co., Kansas City, at a cost of $4,778.96.

The W. J. Menefee Construction Co., Sedalia, was awarded a contract to haul crushed stone or gravel for 118 miles of roadway in division No. 6 for $17,337.95.

LUNCHEON HELD BY CREDIT GROUP

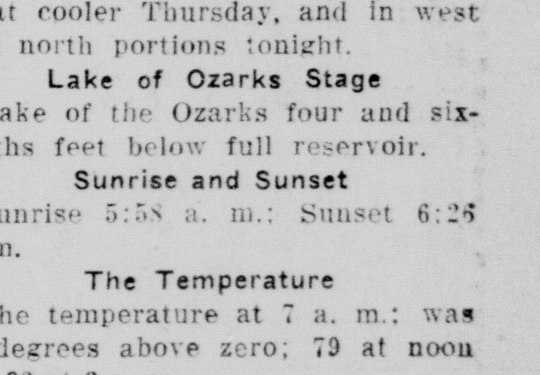

The Sedalia Credit Association held its regular monthly meeting at the Bothwell Hotel in the Palm Room with the president, I. H. Reed, presiding.

L. A. Pharris, manager of the Public Loan Corporation, was the speaker and used as his subject "Collections." Because time did not permit Mr. Pharris to complete his talk, the meeting was adjourned and Mr. Pharris will be in charge of the next meeting to be held on October 6 at which time he will complete his talk.

RATTLING THE BONES

It is amusing to witness dignified members of the United States senate running to cover on the Klan issue raised against former Senator Hugo L. Black who in October will begin service as supreme court justice.

Sixty-six of these gentlemen were impatient to have court confirmation rushed through and indignantly over the Klan accusations then hurled in the direction of their colleague. Even Senator Borah defended him on this point, lacking evidence of his membership in the secret order. The Idahoan, however, voted against confirmation on other grounds.

Nettled over smashing publicity against Mr. Black and prodded by constituents to explanation of their approval of the President's surprise-appointment during the congressional session, some of these senators have maneuvered a sudden about face. Senator Wagner (Dem.) New York is a case in point. He voted for confirmation and now voices vociferously "I voted for Black's confirmation in the belief he was not a member of the Klan. If he was a member of the Klan and I knew of it I would not have voted for confirmation." Senator David I. Walsh in Massachusetts says "Black should resign." Senator Brown of Michigan expresses an opinion similar to Wagner's. And so on down the line.

In the face of thousands of telegrams from all parts of the country accusing Black of Klan membership, these august senatorial gentlemen, including Borah, "didn't have any evidence." These legal minded technicians are now hunting alibis, excusing their favorable vote and crying for Black's scalp. If they had originally not been in such a hurry they might have had the evidence. It is distressing that they didn't have the enterprise or willingness to do so, but let it remain for newspapermen to get the facts too late to accomplish what they now propose—keep Black from the bench.

Senator Logan of Kentucky pooh-poohs this rattling of bones, and well he may. The appointment is now beyond the reach of the President or the senate. Only by his voluntary resignation, or by the Supreme Court finding against him on technical legal protests now pending (and not involving the Klan issue), could Black be kept off the bench.

If Black did resign he probably would be entitled to $20,000 a year without doing one stick of court work. So he might as well remain and earn his salary. It is doubtful if his Klan sympathies, if he has any at all, will warp any subsequent court opinions.

When all the shouting and tumult dies away, we will expect the now silent Supreme Court Justice to give out a sensible statement to the country definitely disavowing his allegiance to or sympathy with the principles of the Ku Klux Klan. It will relieve an embarrassed president and senate.

DOWN WITH THE PIRATES

Since it is commonly whispered that the "pirate" submarines operating in the Mediterranean sea are Italian, the nine-power campaign against the craft is aimed at the fascist chief. A delicate situation arises. The sorest place is the Italian-Russian controversy. Italy and Germany are on one side of the submarine situation, but the others say they intend to destroy "pirate" submarines without trace. This policy is bound to affect the morale of crews selected for undersea craft in the great inland sea.

SOLVING THE FARM PROBLEM

That great section of the metropolitan press which has fought President Roosevelt viciously during the five years in which the chief executive has been aiding agriculture seems to be actually pleased that there is a question of procedure in outlining a new agricultural aid bill. In all that period the great editorial writers of the big city newspapers have projected their owl-like wisdom on the farm problem. Farm troubles have furnished the basis of many learned comments by them, as well as numerous jolly wise-cracks. The President, in all seriousness, should ask these writers to bring their store of wisdom to bear and outline the type of farm measure they would write, or even favor. That would be a help!

THE SHORTER DAYS

From New York Times.

Now the days are growing shorter; now the actors are returning hopefully from theatres by the sea and in the mountains; now the night clubs grow livelier and taxicabs in the amusement district drive the traffic policemen to distraction; soon straw hats will be falling like the leaves of the forest and vests will reappear on many bosoms; Luv our feminine friends are thinking of fur coats and rearranging themselves from masthead to Keelson; now echo our railway stations with the war cries of boys and girls returning from summer camps and the nervous screams of harassed chaperons; now fall those rains which are the fore-runners of the autumnal equinox.

Above the level of the summer lassitude politics rears its head, openmouthed; the brown hues painfully acquired on summer beaches are already beginning to fade; and the weather bureau obdurate for many weeks, relents and promises relief at last.

Now begin the electric light bills again to climb; now the corridors of schools echo again to the glad shouts of children eager—Oh, how eager!—to resume their education; now the city burgeoins and flourishes, expands and swaggers; now begins again the annual retreat from Nature; now, in short, the days are growing shorter.

RULES ARE RULES

From the Commentator.

They won't check your purse, even if it contains only two cents, in the check-room of the New York public library. But they'll take care of anything else for you, including children. Whether you feel that this indicates a lower or a higher value set up on flesh and blood than upon money, all depends on your point of view about the big city.

If people seem to be improving, rejoice and be glad. It means you are climbing into better society.

If you have an extra job, do it on a busy day. On other days you never have time.

PARADE"
I THANK YOU.

NEW YORK—Senator Royal S. Copeland, bitter Roosevelt critic, will not win the Democratic nomination for Mayor of New York, and his chances of capturing the Republican designation are not much better.

This is the outstanding development in the New York political scrap—a battle which, although only for the nomination of city tickets, actually is the most important battle in America since last November.

Because of its importance, big-shot politicians from both parties are applying the microscope, and here are some of the facts they have deduced:

1. Lambasting the New Deal does not win votes—at least not in New York. Senator Copeland, a Democrat, has been as rabid against the New Deal as any Republican ever thought of being. But he has been steadily backsliding.

2. This is Tammany's last stand. If defeated next November, the Wigwag might just as well close its flaps.

3. If Mayor La Guardia emerges victorious from both primary and election, as now seems probable, he will be strong presidential timber in 1940.

4. The day when Republicans and Democrats can successfully combine on an anti-Roosevelt ticket still is in the future. All sorts of overtures were made to get a big league Republican to root for Copeland (National Committeeman Charley Hilles, ex-Congressman Ruth Pratt, and ex-Secretary of the Treasury Oaten Mills all were approached), without result. Only the voice of Al Smith, anti-Roosevelt Democrat, was heard crying in the wilderness.

Soft Pedaling

The whole strategy of Doctor Copeland at first was to make Roosevelt his whipping boy. He sprayed anti-New Deal vitriol all over Manhattan.

But it proved a dismal flop, and it played squarely into the hands of Mayor Fiorello (Little Flower) La Guardia and Judge Jeremiah Mahoney, the anti-Tammany Hall candidate.

In fact, the reaction against Copeland was so serious that during the closing days of the campaign, his master-minds had him dilute his New Deal attacks to milk and water. His previous roars of outraged indignation turned to a meek whisper that the New Deal had nothing to do with the case.

FDR For Fiorello

It is an open secret that Roosevelt is for the Little Flower. They long have been close friends, and La Guardia has backed Roosevelt on almost every New Deal issue. Secretly the President hopes he will win, not only in the present primaries, but in the November election.

However, he will not intervene to aid Fiorello.

HOW TO KNOW YOU ARE HAPPILY MARRIED

I DID NOT know this man very well, but we fell into conversation and, as sometimes happens, he told me things about himself that he might never have told members of his own family. He told me what he worked at and what his hobbies were and finally got around to the subject of married happiness.

"You know," he said, "I've been married about 20 years and my wife and I have our share of ups and downs. We've had plenty of tiffs and fights, too, and once she even told me that if I didn't straighten out she was going to divorce me. One thing about her to me, though, was complain about her to my acquaintances. You know, a lot of husbands do that. I've heard more hard luck tales about married life than I could count on all my fingers and toes. I'm a pretty fair listener when I'm not talking and you can't imagine what big husky guys have cried on my shoulder and told me what a she-devil the little woman was."

"Sometimes it seems to me that hardly anybody I know is happily married. They get along all right and the husband and wife seem to be happy enough with a minimum of sniping at each other in public."

The American Constitution

Questions and Answers Pertaining to the Constitution From "The Story of the Constitution" by the U. S. Sesqui-centennial Commission, Representative Sol Bloom of New York, Director General

QUESTIONS

1. How can it be said that the signing of the constitution was unanimous, when the deputies of only 12 states signed and some delegates refused to sign?

2. What was the average age of the deputies to the constitutional convention?

ANSWERS

1. The signatures attest the "Unanimous consent of the states present." The voting was by states, and the vote of each state that of a majority of its deputies. Hamilton signed this attestation for New York, though, as he was the only deputy of the state present, he had not been able to cast the vote of his state for the consent. Only 11 states voting on the final question. There is an even greater discrepancy about the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Some seven or eight members present on July 4 never signed; seven signers including Richard Henry Lee, of Virginia, who proposed the resolution of independence, were not present on the day; and eight other signers were not members of congress until after July 4.

DIET MEASUREMENTS AS USED BY DIABETICS

Of all the chronic diseases that afflict mankind, diabetes is the best one to have, but there are two catches in it. It can be managed better than any of the others, and such management gives wonderful results, but it depends upon constant attention and intelligent understanding of the disease. A man with a cancer, whether he is rich or poor, stands about the same chance of recovery (which, incidentally, is very good). And if he uses enough sense, or by the offices of his friends manages to fall into the right hands, from then on he need not use any intelligence or self-control or will power—the result will be the same anyhow. Not so diabetes.

The first stumbling block the diabetic who is just learning to handle himself goes up against is that he must weigh and measure his food. He is not used to this and furthermore most of the formulae are expressed in grams (the metric system) which is additionally confusing to him. But this need go on for only a few weeks—after that he has learned to measure roughly the amounts in each food, and besides in most cases of diabetes it is unnecessary to be terribly accurate. In the cases where extreme accuracy is essential, insulin comes in to help, so again extreme accuracy is unnecessary. But approximate accuracy is necessary, so let us try to straighten out the mathematics.

Cause of Diabetes

First, very briefly, what is diabetes? Diabetes is a low tolerance on the part of the body to sugar and starch. The diabetic body cannot utilize as much of them as the normal because the secretion of the pancreas, insulin, which normally burns them up, producing energy, is lacking. Hence if too much sugar or starch is eaten it simply flows off in the urine. In treatment, other foods to replace the carbohydrates must be substituted in order to keep the body from attacking its own flesh. Treatment aims to keep the amount of carbohydrate eaten just at the patient's ability to utilize it: all diabetes can utilize some carbohydrate. With this treatment, improvement occurs, and tolerance rises. If treatment is not adhered to, the constant presence of sugar in the blood causes poisons to accumulate, with the result of acidosis, fatigue and sluggishness, and the danger of boils, carbuncles and other complications.

The books on diabetes and the diet given out usually list the different foods in terms of grams and kilograms—the metric system. It isn't really hard to get on to this, because no normal person has ever been in the habit of weighing his food in any system of weights. A weighing machine marked in grams can be obtained in any physician's supply house and many drug stores. The diabetic himself or herself should weigh his or her own food for a month in order to learn what portions of what weigh how much.

System is Puzzling

The housewife, however, isn't used to grams and if she calls up the druggist, as she is apt to do, to get light on what a gram is, she will be told in apothecaries' measure, which is different in many respects from apothecaries measure which the grocer uses, and in which body weight is measured in American households.

So in translating cast apothecaries' weight aside and use apothecaries' equivalents, as follows:

In diabetic instructions, body weight is quoted in kilograms: a kilogram is 2.24 pounds.

An ounce is 31 grams—about two tablespoonfuls.

A glass is about six ounces. Loosely packed vegetables (on average) an ordinary glass equals eight ounces.

CHAPTER 50

SANDY received Mrs. Madden's letter the following day, and grinned as he noticed both an air-mail and a special delivery stamp on the lavender envelope. When he saw the postmark of "La Cresta," he ripped it open rapidly. Not troubling to look at the papers that fell from the envelope, he scanned the notepaper quickly.

Amazement and then a quick smile of triumphant happiness erased the worried lines from his face. Like magic he felt a new spirit of enthusiasm warming his heart, and he stooped to pick up the missing papers. When he had studied them in the bright light of that July day, his satisfaction became complete.

Silently he re-read the explanatory letter the cunning old lady had sent him.

"Sandy, you dear stubborn boy," it read. "Look at the enclosed pictures made by my granddaughter, and then rush right down here before you break both our hearts. Any girl who can glorify your nondescript face like this must be in love with you. I don't know this Paula, but I'll wager she can't draw . . . or love . . . like my Marcia."

"Yours very sincerely,"

"ALICIA MADDEN."

Sandy went tearing about the office like a madman, and Mike Borst, who had appropriated Paula's old corner, looked on in amazement.

"What in thunder has struck you, man?"

"Love—Marcia! he almost shouted. "The artist in her was her undoing after all," he laughed aloud. Excitedly he pushed both the letter and the tell-tale pictures under his friend's nose.

"Yeah," he said vacantly. "She must be in love—or nuts!" And he looked appraisingly at Sandy's features and then back at the proof in his hand. Decidedly there was a resemblance, but he shook his head when he considered how far-fetched it was.

Sandy grabbed his hat from the desk and rushed out with a nasty remark. "I'll be back sometime." To which Mike said laconically, "Oh, thanks."

He was in his car when another thought struck him, and he stopped short. He felt a related spirit of sportsmanship toward the luckless Garrett, and decided before he went to claim Marcia that he owed that gentleman an apology. Painfully, he forced himself to go to Gary's office, and there he expressed his appreciation for Gary's tactful handling of the whole mixup at the Trocadero. Before leaving, he turned gratefully to the man sitting behind his big desk. He seemed about to speak, when Garrett interrupted him.

"Are you trying to tell me that you've won Marcia where I failed? Because if you are, I want to congratulate you," the publisher rose to his feet, and extended his hand with a sincere smile. "Make her happy."

Sandy was embarrassed, but appreciative of the man's fine spirit.

"Oh, and Knight," he continued, "you might take her this child's story, and tell her I'd like to have her do the illustrations for it. It's an easy kind of vacation job," he smiled. Sandy accepted it awkwardly, then quickly took his leave.

The old gray roadster covered the miles between Los Angeles and La Cresta in a little more than half the time Marcia had taken. No luncheon for him when he was on his way to Marcia!

He swiftly jumped from the car before it had hardly stopped in front of the Madden bungalow.

The scene looked no different than it had the year before, when he had stalked so angrily up the hill in search of vengeance. The sun glistened brightly on the towering palm tree, and flowers again blossomed gaily in the prim little garden. In a moment Mrs. Madden came out on the porch to make the illusion real. From that time on, the scene was distinctly of the present.

Mrs. Madden hurried down the walk to meet him.

"You're not angry with me?" she asked at once, but his beaming face told her more quickly than his words that he was glad for her helpful meddling.

"Well, fools rush in," she smiled indulgently. Then she pretended anger as she turned and scolded him roundly.

"She took her horse and went for a ride," she began, but Sandy was half way out the gate.

"You can't drive there!" she was calling a warning after him, but Sandy already was roaring away toward the hill. He forced the car as far up the steep incline as it would go, then got out and walked impatiently up toward the

THE FOUR WINDS

Wind of the North,
Wind of the Norland snows,
Wind of the winnowed skies and sharp, clear stars—
Blow cold and keen across the naked hills,
And crisp the lowland pools, with crystal films.
And blue the casement-squares with glittering ice,
But go not near my love.

Wind of the West,
Wind of the few, far clouds,
Wind of the gold and crimson sunset lands—
Blow fresh and pure across the peaks and plains,
And broaden the blue spaces of the heavens.
And sway the grasses and the mountain pines,
But let my dear one rest.

Wind of the East,
Wind of—the sunrise seas,
Wind of the clinging mists and gray, harsh rains—
Blow moist and chill across the wastes of brine,
And shut the sun out, and the moon and stars,
And lash the boughs against the dripping eaves,
Yet keep thou from my love.

But thou, sweet wind!
Wind of the fragrant South,
Wind from the bowers of jasmine and of rose!—
Over magnolia blooms and lilied lakes,
And flowering forests come with dewy wings,
And stir the petals at her feet, and kiss
The low mound where she lies.

DINNER STORIES

Not Henpecked?

"Bill can't be as henpecked as you make out. I heard him remonstrating with his wife last night." "Oh, yes, he is! What you heard last night was Bill complaining that she had dropped cigaret ashes on the floor he had just washed."

He loosened the collar of his light sport shirt as he plunged over the brush, calling loudly for Marcia.

The girl was leading her horse across the ridge when she heard his voice faintly. Disbelieving her ears, she walked on. Unconsciously she had found the spot where Sandy had told her of his love long months before and was musing unhappily on the way she had kept pushing love into the future until she had finally lost it completely.

Suddenly there was no doubting the tones of the voice coming to her, and with a quick cry of happiness she started to run in the direction from which it came. They met with forcible violence as she plunged headlong down the steep cliff, and Sandy held her to him wildly. For a long moment there was no word of explanation or of question—simply complete happiness at the reunion that had happened so miraculously.

"Sandy, hurry back and with wide-eyed wonder said, 'How did you find me after all these lonely weeks?'"

"I guess my heart unconsciously must have broadcast an S. O. S. for help," he teased her. "I received another mysterious letter from my famous radio public, and it brought me to my senses in double-quick time. From now on there's nothing big enough to keep us apart; we've wasted too many precious months in waiting."

Mistily Marcia agreed. She sensed vaguely that grandma must have had a hand in their reunion, but there was time enough for those details later. She found it hard to realize that all the loneliness and sadness of the past weeks was over, and that they were together for all time.

It was almost an hour later that Sandy generously told Marcia of Gary's fine attitude on that last interview. Rather shamefacedly he revealed that his love was no longer so demanding, when he encouraged her to do the illustrations for the new children's book, "Children?" Marcia said dreamily. "Ah, Sandy—that gives me a better idea."

With an embarrassed grin, Sandy smiled down at her. "Yes," she said, "and from now on, we'll leave work for tomorrow."

SHANGHAI CIVIC CENTER IS AGAIN CHARRED RUINS

Destruction Parallel Is Found In World War Magic Sweep

(Editor's note: James A. Mills looked today at the ruins of Shanghai's magnificent Shanghai civic center in Kiangwan and saw therein "the fury, the futility and fanaticism" of war. Here is his moving story.)

BY JAMES A. MILLS
SHANGHAI, Sept. 15.—The majestic Shanghai civic center, costing $25,000,000 and the finest municipal plant in all the Orient, rose from Shanghai's ruins in 1932. Today it is a ruin itself.

I went out there today and looked at it. Four weeks of incessant bombardment by Japanese planes, warships and artillery have converted the city hall, the library, the museum, the stadium and the hospital into charred and broken monuments to the fury, the futility and the fanaticism of war.

This great development was designed and built by American-educated Chinese architects and engineers. It was intended to serve as a model for the other cities of China. Neither Tokyo nor Nanking could boast such superb administrative and cultural buildings.

Today all these are black, mangled skeletons which appal the eye and sicken the heart. Spain and Ethiopia have seen nothing like this. One has to go back to the ruined classical cities of France and Belgium of the world war—Rheims, Louvain, Liege—to find a parallel to the tragic sweep of destruction.

Great and gaping shell holes in most of the building have made rebuilding almost an impossibility. Even the $2,000,000 mex American style hospital, which was to have served as a model for all China, is as badly shattered as the Woonung forts that stand grim and broken at the confluence of the Whangpoo and the Yangtze.

The stadium, built like Harvard's, is shell torn. The million dollar library is a ghost of its former self. Most tragic picture. But it is in the great white granite museum, which housed China's century old relics, those from the Taping rebellion, the opium war and the Boxer uprising, that I saw the most tragic picture.

Scattered about the debris-strewn floors and shell-pierced galleries are the broken heads and the dismembered torsos of delicately carved gods, the arms and legs of papier-mache mannikins, stripped of their gorgeous raiment, the pathetic remains of Chinese classical dolls, puppets, statues.

To this tragic spectacle of war has been added the crimes of vandalism. So great has been the looting and desecration that it is hard to tell exactly what kind of articles were exhibited in the museum.

Hundreds of showcases and thousands of shelves have been stripped of everything. Minzled inconspicuously with unexploded shells, hand grenades, steel helmets and the ghastly tokens of war are broken symbols of peace—praying Buddhas, sacred idols, confusion philosophic writings.

In the midst of these shattered relics are torn portraits of Sun Yat-Sen, founder of the Chinese Republic and of Chiang Kai-Shek, who inherited his mantle as the father of the revolution.

Strange Contrast

I saw a strange contrast to this picture of death and desolation in the recumbent, mud-covered forms of Japanese soldiers, so exhausted from the fierce duties of war that they sought the peace of sleep.

Outside the shell broken city hall, Japanese tanks, armored cars and artillery batteries stand row upon row. They are using what is left of the buildings as a barricade against Chinese guns, less than a mile away.

For miles around the civic center, freshly lighted fires make an amphitheatre of flame for the shattered structure, standing like a cenopath to death and misery.

Shells break overhead, airplanes drone, in the distance there is the relentless chatter of machine guns.

Great spirals of smoke twist on the horizon. They are truly the funeral pyres of Shanghai's civic center.

I saw these things as I drove back toward the heart of Shanghai, deep in thought.

Suddenly a huge Japanese bomber swooped low over my automobile. The pilot leaned out; saw the American and Japanese flags whipping over the bonnet.

Then he zoomed up and into the sky. (The mex dollar used in above story is about 30 cents, American).

HOG SANITATION PROVES VALUABLE

The constant use of the same fields and lots by many Pettis County hog raisers makes the growing of a good thrifty bunch of pigs the exception rather than the rule, says County Agent J. U. Morris.

In order to avoid infestations from internal parasites and accompanying old-hog-lot diseases, it is advisable to clean the sows thoroughly before they are placed in clean individual farrowing houses which should be located on ground which has been in a cultivated crop since hogs were on it or where hogs have not been for at least two years. If the ground is in some legume pasture such as clover or alfalfa, its value is increased.

Records kept by farmers indicate the value of providing clean pens and grounds. The value of growing pigs on clean ground was brought out very conclusively this summer on the William J. Lamm farm in the Smithton community. Mr. Lamm has raised 43 pigs to nearly market weight from five sows. This is an average of 8 1/3 pigs per litter. On another farm, one individual showed that a litter of 7 pigs farrowed in January and kept in old pens was reduced to 4 by September 22. These four averaged only 138 pounds each. In contrast, ten other of his sows farrowed 72 pigs in March and these pigs were placed on clean clover pasture. On September 22, all 72 of the pigs were alive and they averaged 195 pounds in weight. The gross returns from each of the ten sows amounted to $99.45 more than those from the sow whose pigs were raised in the old lot.

The contrast between hogs raised on clean and old lots will be shown to hog raisers visiting the Profitable Pork Production Special which will stop at the Alton railroad station at Marshall in Saline County on October 7th from 8 to 12 o'clock in the morning.

FATALLY SHOTS
A FORMER JUDGE

By The Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—A 56-year-old man fatally shot former Municipal Court Judge Frederick W. Elliott, stabbed his associate and then surrendered to the police today.

Captain Patrick Collins said George L. Chickavarrich walked into Desplaines street station a few minutes after the two lawyers had been assaulted and said:

"I just shot Judge Elliott; here's the gun."

He tossed a .32 caliber pistol on the officer's desk. The captain said the man added that he had stabbed George A. Mason, an attorney and associate of Elliott in a suit against Chickavarrich.

Collins said Mason and Elliott had named Chickavarrich defendant in a $5,000 suit for legal services.

Captain Collins said the prisoner blamed Elliott and Mason for the loss of $60,000 in property. He said Chickavarrich told him he retained the man to represent him in litigation in 1931 but eventually he lost the property.

The captain said the man held the two lawyers responsible for the death of his wife, which he attributed to worry. Collins quoted Chickavarrich as saying the attorneys also attempted to have his wife declared incompetent and placed in an asylum.

BELIEVES WIFE WHO DISAPPEARED DEAD

By The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—William H. Parsons, the Stony Brook, Long Island, pigeon farmer, whose socially prominent wife, Alice McDonnell Parsons, disappeared mysteriously fourteen weeks ago, said today he believes she is dead, but doubts the authenticity of letters reporting her death from pneumonia.

Federal agents, who have been investigating the case since June 9, declined to say whether they believe Mrs. Parsons is dead.

Earl Connelley, department of justice agent in charge of the case, declined to say whether his men had intercepted letters from supposed kidnapers stating Mrs. Parsons died of pneumonia July 9. But Benjamin Shivers, attorney for Mrs. Anna Kuprianova, who lived at Parsons home, and Parsons himself confirmed the report.

FRESH INSURGENT
ATTEMPT MADE TO TAKE MADRID

Infantry Attacks Follow
Bombardment By French Mortars

By CHARLES P. NUTTER
MADRID, Sept. 15.—The thunder of a fresh insurgent attempt to smash into Madrid, this time through the southwestern suburbs, rolled over this war-torn, war-bred metropolis today.

Defense commanders shrugged and commented: "No substantial gains."

Children played at warfare of their own on the heavy stone street barricades erected for a grimmer purpose—played while men died scarcely a mile away.

Mothers sat in the sun and nursed infants born since Nov. 6 when the insurgents laid siege to the former capital of republican Spain.

Civilian Madrid at large went about its business, scarcely noticing the din of combat which drummed so heavily in the ears of newcomers to Madrid.

Shelling, the rumble of exploding land mines and the chatter of machine guns crescendoed today.

Fierce bombardment by trench mortars Monday in the Urcia sector was followed yesterday with open infantry attacks which government officers said had been repulsed. It was the first major combat on the Madrid front in weeks.

The street barricades, raised against the day when Madrid feared her insurgent foe might appear in the city proper, cut off motor car traffic in many districts and thousands of city-bred children used the streets for their mimic wars and hide-and-seek.

On hills overlooking the Carabanchel trenches of the insurgents, elderly people sat and gazed with tired and seemingly indifferent eyes toward the scene of battle.

The indifference of Madrilenos is the principal concern of authorities trying desperately to reduce the population by evacuations before winter comes. They must be moved to places in Spain where food is more plentiful.

With Madrid's railroad cut by the insurgents, all food has been brought in by motor trucks.

All pleas to conserve this hard-to-get supply so that Madrid's fighting forces may surely eat have met an indifference born of man's ties to a home wherever it may be. Madrid still has her normal population of about 1,000,000.

Newspapers have made repeated appeals to women and other non-combatants to leave as a patriotic duty.

"That is the least the Spanish citizen can do when thousands of Spaniards are giving their lives at the front to block the doors against invaders," the Communist organ Mundo Obrero said.

But still the old people sit in the sun; mothers placidly nurse their babes, and the children play tag on the barricades.

(Nutter, formerly assigned to Moscow, arrived here recently at a former Spanish capital. He is a former Sedalia, having been several years ago connected with the publicity bureau of the Missouri State Fair).

IT'S TRUE!

New York, N. Y.—"IT'S TRUE!" that the world's largest and heaviest curtain appears in the grand finale number of M-G-M's "Broadway Melody of 1938", which depicts Broadway in all its splendor," says Wiley Padan.

"The curtain, composed of solid glass, weighs more than nine tons and is 100 feet wide and 120 feet high! It was designed by art director Cedric Gibbons, and his associate Merrill Pye."

To Texas A. and M. College Frederick Handley, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Handley, 419 East Sixth street, left this morning for College Station, Texas, where he will enroll as a freshman in the Texas A. and M. college.

SAFETY CARAVAN IN
VISIT AT CAPITAL

By The Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 15.—Acting Governor Frank G. Harris and a number of other state officials signed the "super safety honor roll" at brief ceremonies here today, as a pre-convention feature of the National Safety Congress to be held in Kansas City, Oct. 11-13.

The capital city was the first stop on the caravan tour of Missouri and parts of Kansas by the Kansas City Safety Council. From here the caravan will go to Columbia for an over-night stop, and will return to Kansas City, October 6.

Others at the ceremony, which was held in front of the state capitol, included: Secretary of State Dwight H. Brown, State Treasurer R. W. Winn, State Auditor Forrest Smith, Attorney General Roy McKittrick, Supreme Court Judges C. A. Leedy, Ernest M. Tipton and George Robb Ellison, WPA Director Matthew S. Murray and Col. B. M. Castrol of the state highway patrol.

The Kansas City Safety Council plans to obtain 100,000 signatures from persons pledging themselves to all phases of safety in walking, driving and working.

HOLDS FEES ALLOWED ARE "EXORBITANT"

By The Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 15.—Allowance of approximately $54,500 in fees to Guy M. Sone and T. S. Mosby, custodian and counsel in the state's 16 2-3 per cent fire insurance rate case, was held today by Attorney General Roy McKittick to be "grossly exorbitant, unreasonable and excessive."

The attorney general made this contention in a brief filed with the state supreme court in appealing from an order by Circuit Judge Nike G. Sevier who allowed the fees early in 1935.

Sone, who is circuit clerk of Cole county, had been receiving $500 a month, and Mosby, $1,000 a month, for four years. They were reduced in half by Judge Sevier last spring.

"We respectfully assert," McKittick said, "that under the facts and law applied to them in this case, substantial justice is rendered by denying both of these respondents any compensation in this case, and we suggest that if respondent Sone were permitted to collect a fee for services as custodian in this case, it would be a departure from the law as written in Missouri, and would open up a field of endless litigation."

Harry G. Walner, Jr., and Drake Watson, assistants, aided McKittick in preparing the brief.

Sone is custodian of approximately 1,700,000 in impounded insurance funds in the 16 2-3 per cent case, now pending in the supreme court on appeal. Mosby was named by Judge Sevier as Sone's counsel.

MANVILLE PONDERES BLONDE TROUBLES

By The Associated Press.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Tommy Manville locked himself in his 25-room fortress, Bon Repos, today to ponder his blonde troubles.

The gray-haired asbestos heir, usually loquacious over his marital tribulations, was reluctant to discuss details of a "gentleman's agreement" whereby he will pay $200,000—and perhaps a good deal more—to Marcelle Edwards, his fourth wife, for a divorce.

He denied, however, that he was obtaining the divorce in order to wed Dolly ("Honey-Chile") Goering, his Kentucky-bred secretary.

Dolly backed up her employer enthusiastically.

"I'd rather be the secretary of Mr. Manville any day than be his wife," she said.

Manville brought eleven checks to a conference of lawyers yesterday at which the divorce plans were completed. They were deposited in a bank, Manville said, and will be paid to Miss Edwards when the decree is granted. He said he did not know when his wife, a former show girl, would leave for Reno.

MAKES LOW BID TO REPLACE LINER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Corporation submitted today the low bid of a fixed sum of $17,500,000, or an adjusted price of $15,750,000 for construction of a transatlantic liner to replace the Leviathan.

Bids for the new liner were invited on both a fixed sum basis and an adjusted price basis. The latter would be subject to adjustment on the basis of changes in the costs of labor and materials, providing any resultant increase, or decrease, did not exceed 15 per cent.

Only three bids were received.

Trouble Between Russia And Japan Seems Brewing

persisted too long, there would be an upheaval.

Still we must look outside the far east for one of the chief reasons why Russia and Japan are regarding each other with so little open animosity.

Bitterest Foe of Moscow
That reason is Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, ally of Japan and perhaps the bitterest foe of Moscow.

The German chieftain long has been hurling rocks at Russia's Stalin, especially since Germany's rearmament. The people of the fatherland have publicly discussed war with Russia and the prospect of annexing the rich Ukraine.

Hitler has been credited by many with wanting to make war on Russia but feeling that conditions were not right, notably as regards German finance. Since the Japanese invasion of China, however, Hitler has renewed his threats against Communism, and nods of approval have come from Rome.

The effect has been that Stalin, while he has made it clear in the past he wasn't afraid to take on Germany and Japan, has been moving cautiously and watching Hitler with a weather eye. So Japan would seem to be sitting rather well for the time being.

Military experts have been doing considerable speculating as to whether Russia could wage war successfully on two such widely separated fronts at the same time. It depends on her state of preparedness.

That is where the experts fail. Only Stalin and his chief executives know how well equipped Russia is.

Biggest Military Force
It is conceded that she has by far the biggest military force in the world.

It is guessed that she has much the biggest air armada, but that is only a guess.

Her navy is very weak, and that is no guess.

The Russian army, including trained reserves, is believed to total 11,500,000 men, and Moscow boasts that they are well equipped. Germany has 3,000,000 and Japan 2,250,000.

Japan's principal concern has related to the Russian air fleet, which has been estimated to reach the vast total of ten thousand ships, many of which are capable of covering long distances without landing. The recent flights across the North Pole speak of that.

No foreigner can say whether ten thousands is anywhere near the correct mark, but it is agreed that the Russian fleet is powerful, and that she has plenty of trained aviators.

The Russians have perhaps a thousand airplanes on the eastern seaboard opposite neighboring Japan, and the Nipponese don't like to think about bombs dropped wholesale among the thickly populated cities with their lightly constructed buildings.

Germany has the world's second greatest air fleet, estimated at some 7,000 planes. Japan's equipment is a matter of speculation.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 15.—(P)—The nude body of a woman was taken from the Niagara Gorge today, and Coroner Harry R. Emes said it had been identified as that of Mrs. Lloyd W. Jenkins, 48, of Eggertsville.

The skull was fractured and there were other body injuries, all apparently caused by a plunge over Niagara Falls, the coroner said. He did not immediately give a verdict.

F. D. R. Refuses To Comment On Attack On Black

is a member of the Klan brought the response that this was an if question.

Congratulatory Messages
CLINTON, Mass., Sept. 15.—Senator David I. Walsh (D-Mass.), today said he had been receiving messages from all over the country, congratulating him upon his request that Hugo Black, newly appointed supreme court justice, make a public statement repudiating the principles of the Ku Klux Klan, or resign.

He stated that among those from whom he had received messages were several of his colleagues in the senate. "Who voted for Senator Black's confirmation, but who would never have done so if it had not been for the representations made upon the floor of the senate by his colleague, and others that Black was not a member of the Ku Klux Klan."

These colleagues, Senator Walsh's statement said, demanded a public statement designed to disclose Justice Black's position.

Senator Walsh stated that Catholic senators, and those responsible to constituents of the Roman and Jewish faiths, particularly were entitled to such a statement.

Silence on Black's part at this juncture, Walsh said "will be most unfortunate from the standpoint of public confidence."

Studied The Evidence
INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 15.—Senator Van Nuys (D-Ind.), member of the senate judiciary committee which considered Senator Hugo Black's nomination to the supreme court, said today he would not have voted for the Alabamian if he had believed Black was a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

"Nor do I believe other members of the committee would have voted for him," Van Nuys added. "There wasn't much time, but we studied all available evidence, including testimony from Alabama Catholic and Jewish leaders that Black was friendly to their interests."

Told All His Reasons
OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 15.—Senator Edward R. Burke of Omaha, commenting today on the Justice Black Ku Klux Klan statements with the statement "I think I told all my reasons for opposing the confirmation of Mr. Black when I had the floor before the senate confirmation committee."

"At that time I offered to bring in witnesses to testify that Mr. Black had belonged to the Ku Klux Klan. All I wanted to do was to get Mr. Black before the committee. Then I would have asked him if he had belonged to the Klan. I am sure there would have been no denial."

Defense For Black
PRESSES' HOME, Tenn., Sept. 15.—Senator George L. Berry of Tennessee made this statement today in connection with the Ku Klux Klan controversy over Justice Hugo L. Black:

"If all that is being said is true, what are you going to do about it? I have known Justice Black for 20 years and I don't know of a finer character in America. A lot of people have joined an organization in periods of enthusiasm to withdraw later when they knew more about it."

"That is the worst that can be said about Justice Black."

STORM SYNAGOGUE DURING SERVICES

By The Associated Press.

WARSAW, Sept. 15.—Rioters stormed a synagogue at Czeladz during a Yom Kippur service today in a violence outbreak of Polish anti-Jew terrorism.

The mob first stoned the Synagogue and broke all the windows. Panic-stricken Jews fled from every door.

They were attacked and beaten as they tried to escape.

Police arrived and arrested half a dozen persons.

The riot was but one of a series of such outbreaks of violence which, coupled with increasing anti-Jewish boycott tendencies, have been alarming Polish Jews.

In recent months a peasants' boycott of Jewish tradesmen in small towns has been so thorough that bankrupt shopkeepers are coming to Warsaw, unable to survive in the rural districts.

Even schoolboys have joined this movement, boycotting Jewish dealers in second-hand textbooks and establishing cooperative book exchanges.

In Minsk Mazowiecki, where feeling has run high since a Jew killed a soldier there in 1935, the first "Ghetto School" in modern Poland has been opened.

Two of the town's three grammar schools have been reserved for gentiles; the third is exclusively for Jews.

Forbids Ships Of U. S. To Carry Arms To Orient

China or Japan "until further notice."

The order applies to 37 vessels owned by the government and operated privately under management contracts.

Other American merchant ships carrying arms cargoes to either country, the President said, will do so at their own risk.

His statement was issued a short time after Mr. Roosevelt at his regular press conference had reiterated that he would do everything possible to keep this country out of war.

The action, however, did not formally invoke the neutrality act, which would automatically forbid all exports of implements of war to belligerents in addition to clapping an embargo on all American financial assistance to the warring nations.

The President emphasized that the government's policy with respect to application of the neutrality act still remains on "a 24 hour basis." He said the question of invoking the act always is under consideration and has been for weeks.

Whether any specific attempt to ship arms on government vessels prompted the President to act today or whether he was motivated only by general apprehension for the future was not made clear.

There was immediate speculation, however, as to whether the President's edict will apply to the steamship Wichita, now en route from Baltimore for China with 19 large airplanes. The Wichita, government-owned but privately operated, sailed from Baltimore in August. It was scheduled to arrive at San Pedro, Calif., today, according to available information here.

Some observers considered it likely the maritime commission would order the vessel not to proceed with its present cargo to China.

At San Pedro, however, it was said the Wichita is scheduled to stop there for fuel tomorrow instead of today.

Port authorities at San Pedro also said customs officials could not compel the Wichita to stop her trip to the Orient, since regulations do not compel government ships to clear customs when merely stopping for sea stores and fuel.

Only last week the state and navy departments warned American merchant shipping of the dangers to be encountered off the China coast because of the Japanese blockade and in the Mediterranean sea because of raids by unidentified aircraft, surface vessels and submarines.

President Roosevelt's announcement was made after he had told reporters that what he said in Hyde Park last week still holds good. At that time he announced his determination to keep this country out of foreign hostilities and declared that the situations in both the far east and the Mediterranean had the people of all the world "jittery."

Officers Killed In The Wreck Of Patrol Car
By The Associated Press.

VALLEY PARK, Mo., Sept. 15.—Chief of Police Olaf Nordlie, 42, and Special Policeman Elmer Dunn were killed early this morning when their patrol car plunged from the road east of here into the Meramec river bottoms. Valley Park is a corporate suburb of St. Louis.

STILL GET CLOTH OVER PEACE PACT

By EDDY GILMORE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—(AP)—The United States is getting ready to hand over six yards of cloth to Evelyn Pierce in consideration of her peace and friendship.

"It's all because of an old, old treaty with my Indian forefathers," smiled dark-eyed Miss Pierce. "I've been getting the cloth as long as I can remember, and I suppose I always will."

It should be explained that the United States has Miss Pierce's complete support. In fact, she works for the Interior Department.

Technically though, if the government didn't come through with the cloth, she could hit the warpath.

There are about 2,000 other Indians who receive the cloth bounty every fall, along with a small cash payment.

It came about like this:
In the 1790's this young republic, beset by growing pains, decided it would be smart to stop fighting Indians even if it had to pay.

It isn't in the record, but historians say sagacious peace-making chieftains looked at the unstable American dollar and decided something tangible ought to be added to the payment.

Cloth was agreed upon.
"We used to get muslin and percale," said Miss Pierce, "but we just get percale now. I don't know why."

Smart as the old chieftains were, the sweep of history has brought evidence that their squaws may have been a little smarter.

"Flowered percale," said Miss Pierce, "is rather unsuited for shirts. Most of the men give the cloth to their wives."

JAPAN PRACTICES ON AIR-RAID DEFENSE
By The Associated Press.

TOKYO, Sept. 15.—Commanded by screaming sirens, two million Japanese tonight met a non-existent enemy in pitch darkness.

Japan was practicing air-raid defense in the largest and most realistic exercises in its history. It was the opening of a five-day program of maneuvers.

It was a 500 yen (about $87) fine if a light was seen.

Sparing Lives Of Noncombatants Demand Made

northeastern portion of the international settlement have been the scene of some of the severest fighting of the war and sections of both have been swept by flames.

The battle surged around the northern border of the international settlement along Soochow creek where the Chinese right flank rests.

American marines sprang to the settlement barricades to guard the thousands of Americans and other foreigners, separated from the major engagement only by the once placid creek.

Shrapnel sprayed overhead and machine gun bullets furrowed paths of death in front of their positions. An occasional rifle shot whined dangerously close by.

The newly-straightened Chinese line was holding firm in the face of the Japanese guns and men massed for a supreme assault. The Chinese indicated their intention of making a determined stand along the 30 mile line to which they withdrew over the week-end, leaving the Japanese in possession of a large area of the Shanghai delta.

Early in the morning the Japanese began pumping shells into the Chinese lines. The Chinese withdrawal had placed them beyond the effective range of the warships in the Whangpoo river and the Japanese moved up battery after battery of powerful tractor-drawn artillery.

Chinese official circles here took a pessimistic view of the American ban on exports of arms to both Chinese and Japanese. Authorities stated they felt it would not greatly affect the Chinese prosecution of the war but was indicative of a departure from America's "one-time interest in justice and right" and the precepts of morality which were once paramount.

Chinese expressed the belief that the United States' neutrality action, in effect, favored Japan as she has less need to import arms and munitions than China.

DRIVERS' LICENSES SOON BE ISSUE

By The Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 15.—Distribution of the newly-authorized state drivers' licenses should start "within several days," V. H. Steward, state motor vehicle commissioner, announced today.

Installation of the system to produce photographic copies of motorists' applications was to begin this afternoon, Steward said and as soon as it is in operation the permits will start going out.

Secretary of State Dwight I. Brown's office has, to date, received approximately 300,000 applications, and expects about 500,000 to October 1, eventually about 1,250,000 drivers are expected to obtain the permits which cost 25 cents for a 2-year period.

Steward said about 2,000 notary publics throughout the state have requested application blanks to aid the motorists in applying for licenses.

He emphasized, however, that none of the notaries had been appointed to represent the motor vehicle department.

Under the state law, Steward explained, applications must be noted if the motorists are not able to obtain them at one of the secretary of state's branch offices.

HAYS NOT SPEAK CONSTITUTION DAY

By The Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15.—Arthur Garfield Hays, attorney of New York City, won't deliver Baltimore's constitution day speech Friday.

The general constitution day committee, it was disclosed yesterday, reconsidered its invitation and "deeply regretted" the necessity of asking him to cancel his plans for the speech Richard C. O'Connell, city councilman and committee chairman, wrote Hays it had been decided the entire celebration "should be of a local nature and that all outside participation be dispensed with."

Hays, however, wrote O'Connell that:

"Mr. W. Conwell Smith (president of the Baltimore Bar Association), who originally extended the invitation, was good enough to state the real reason for the cancellation of my address. It appears I am too 'radical for the American Legion'..."

Bruce Bair, Maryland department commander of the Legion, said the objection came because Hays' speech did not confine itself to the subject "The Constitution," but was a rebash of Hays' participation in famous trials.

LINDSEY AT K. U. NEEDS ENDS AND GOOD BACKFIELD

Jayhawks Approach Football Season In Hope and Apprehension

(Note: This is the first of a series of stories on 1937 football prospects at Big Six schools.)

By WHITNEY MARTIN

LAWRENCE, Kas., Sept. 15.—The Kansas Jayhawks, who played their football by ear last year, always landing there very expertly, approach the 1937 campaign with a mixture of hope and apprehension. The hope is based on a new spirit manifesting itself on the field, on the campus, and on soda-fountain stools where a year ago the mention of football brought a hurried call for headache powders.

The apprehension is caused by the knowledge that Coach Ad Lindsey and his assistants have approximately the same material with which to work that they had last year, and last year all they could build was a dog house. To ask that these youngsters overnight develop into an outstanding team is too much.

However, Lindsey, whose mouth formed the upper arc of a circle last year, today will take time out from heavy duties to tell you, with a twinkle in his eye, that things are looking up, and that if the Jayhawks show improvement this year, look out for them a year from now. It seems there are some freshmen on Mount Oread.

Getting down to cases, Lindsey says there are certain problems bothering him no little.

"I haven't any ends," he wails. "And the problem of a well-rounded backfield has me stumped."

It develops that Wade Green and John Siegle, ends, were graduated, and that Dave Shirk, a fine end last fall, is now a fullback. A team of sophomore backfield men—Bill Arnold and Paul White—is being groomed for the wings, but how the youngsters pan out remains to be seen.

Loss Heavily Felt
In addition to Green and Siegle, others missing are Jack Vogel, tackle; George Haggood, passing halfback; Wade Nelson, blocky guard, and Dave Lutton, center. Vogel and Nelson, eligible for more competition, withdrew at the last minute and as both were potential regulars, their loss is felt.

However, Lindsey, who this year has another able assistant in Glenn

Presnell, former Nebraska and pro star, has 17 lettermen and could put a veteran team in the field.

"We'll be stronger in reserves all along the line," he said. "However, some of these shops are going to make the vets hustle for starting jobs."

Pressed for data on these sophs, Lindsey opined that in addition to Arnold and White, Dick Amerline, a halfback, and Charles Warren, center, were most likely to connect, although a sturdy youngster named Milton Sullivan may cut a figure in the backfield.

Shirk, a fine defensive man, and Lyman Divens, punter and passer, are almost sure of regular backfield berths, but at right half, J. D. Richardson, Max Replogle, Ameline and Sullivan are vying a merry battle. Likewise Emil Weinecke, a good blocker, and Paul Masoner are battling for the quarter job.

The team will be average in weight, with no giants and no mid-gets. It will use the same basic offensive system as last year, with, it is hoped, different results.

All in all, the Jayhawk outlook is not so dreary, and the team has the knowledge that the fans aren't asking too much. They don't expect the team to know all the answers too soon.

OVER 1200 HAVE SIGNED UP FOR ANGLING RODEO

Event at Lake of Ozarks Is Scheduled For October 4-9

By The Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 15.—More than 1,200 anglers already have signified their intention of competing in the Lake of the Ozarks Fishing Rodeo, Oct. 4-9, E. L. Preston of the state conservation commission said here today.

A total of $570 in cash prizes will be awarded and merchandise prizes worth $1,500 have already been offered. The list will be considerably increased before the rodeo, Ward C. Gifford, Kansas City, general chairman of the rodeo committee, said.

Merchandise prizes include outboard motors, reels, casting rods, lures, cabin rentals and hotel rooms. A top prize of $200 will go to the fisherman who amasses the largest number of points. Second prize will be $100, and there will be eight other major cash prizes, based on point totals.

Computation By Points
Points will be computed as follows: 10 per ounce on small mouth bass, 10 on wall-eyed pike, 10 on blue gill, 10 on black perch, 8 on large mouth bass, 6 on white or silver bass and 5 on crappie.

Contestants may enter in one day not more than 3 small or large mouth, white or black bass, 5 blue gill or black perch, 2 wall-eyed pike and 3 crappie.

There will also be five prizes in each of the following classes based on the largest fish caught in the class: small mouth bass, large mouth bass, wall-eyed pike, crappie, blue gill and trout.

Another group of prizes will be awarded on points compiled by contestants from each of these states: Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Any person is eligible to compete upon payment of the entrance fee of $1 except owners and employees of lake resorts, and guides. Contestants living in counties bordering the lake—Benton, Camden, Morgan and Miller—will not be eligible for any prize in excess of $15.

Contestants may fish anywhere in the lake from Bagnell Dam to the mouth of the Pomme De Terre above Warsaw.

VICTORIES BY THE BEES OF NO HELP TO CHICAGO CUBS

Giants Cling To Lead In Closely Contested Pennant Race

By BILL BONI

Associated Press Sports Writer

There's no rest for the weary. Slapped down and around twice on the same afternoon by the rambunctious Bees, pushed two and a half games back of the Giants, the Cubs today faced two more games with Commodore McKee's scrappy crew—and especially with Commodore McKee's veteran rookie, rookie veterans or, by any name you please, crack pitchers.

The latest of them, Milt Shoffner, was set to work against the Bruins in one game this afternoon. Behind him are Lou Fette and Jim Turner, the all-season sensations who should be rested by tomorrow.

That double defeat handed the Bruins yesterday—9-0 as the Bees slugged behind Johnny Lanning, 4-2 as they fielded smartly behind Danny MacFadden—did the Cubs no good whatsoever.

With the Giants splitting with Pittsburgh, it cost the Cubs a full game and, besides, tacked two more defeats on their list. The Chicagoans now have lost four games more than the league leaders—and the "games lost" column is the one where the ball players themselves, pay off, since a game lost is one that can't be made up.

The latest standings showed:

Club	Won	Lost	Behind	Play
Giants	80	52	...	22
Cubs	79	56	2 1/2	19

The Giants came out of the only double-header of their last western invasion well enough. In the opener, which they won 12-2, they gave Carl Hubbell more runs than the silent southpaw has had all season and enabled him to coast to the honor of being the first major leaguer to win 19 games.

Even in the night-cap, which they lost 6-2, to Cy Blanton, they nicked the Pirates right-hander for eight hits and might have pulled the game out of the fire in the eighth, when Hank Leibler, who had batted in four runs in the opener, grounded into a double play with the bases jammed.

The rest of the day's program was enough to leave pitchers strewn about in slap-happy carload lots. The Yankees led the parade with a 16-hit fireworks display good for a 17-5 victory over the Indians and leaving the American league champions needing only today double-header to erase Cleveland's last mathematical hope.

The Browns and Tigers also climbed into double figures, the Browns with an 11-4 shellacking of the Athletics, Detroit with an 11-6 clouting of the Senators.

Following the Bees' example, the Cardinals and Dodgers swept right through their bargain bills. St. Louis climbed into a third-place tie with the Pirates by beating the Phils, 9-8, in 14 innings, and then 1-0 in four and a half, while Brooklyn nosed out the Reds, 4-2, then swamped them, 11-2.

The engineer engaged in a railway enterprise in South America was seeking local support for a road and attempted to give the matter point. He asked a native: "How long does it take to carry your goods to market on mule-back?"

"Three days," was the reply. "There's the point," said the engineer. "With our road in operation you could take your goods to market and be back home in one day."

"Very good," answered the native, "but what would we do with the other two days?"

THE SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Chuck Dessen, aired by "Zinninatti," probably can land with the Giants, if he wants to.... The canning surprised one broadcaster, who remarked "—and Dessen was supposed to be a close friend of Owner Paul Crosley...." Well, he was—once.... (In the meantime, if the Reds haven't decided on their 1938 pilot, what's the matter with Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees?).... To a man, New Orleans sports writers deny the Tulane football team is made up of Wisconsin and Minnesota Swedes.... Tulane's demon press agent, Horace Renegar, contributes a hearty "amen."

What's this about Maxie Rosenbloom getting himself lost in a wooded Detroit park while doing roadwork for the Jimmy Adamick bout?... Anyway, Maxie is doing the rest of his training at the race track.... Syracuse will abandon the traditional orange jerseys for dark blue and gold silk pants.... Ought to be nifty.... San Antonio fans gave Manager Zack Taylor (Ye Old Dodger) four brand new auto tires, but held out on the rest of the car until Zack gets his team into the Texas league playoffs.... Out on the coast, Stub Allison is yelling his head off because sports writers have made his California eleven a top-heavy favorite.

Three guesses as to who'll be the next manager to get the axe in the majors.... Mel Ott, doing a dandy job at third for the Giants, came to the club as a catcher.... Pitt has two experienced, triple threat fullbacks in Frank Patrick and Bill Stapulis.... The Phillies would have shifted from Winter Haven to Miami but prexy Gerry Nugent couldn't get the other big league clubs to agree to make the long haul to Miami for exhibitions.... A whole boatload of Puerto Ricans are coming to see their favorite fighters, Pedro Montanez and Sixto Escobar, do their stuff at the "Carnival of Champions" show next week.

Brian Bell, South Carolina's No. 1 story teller, now boss of the AP on the coast, played golf with Ty Cobb the other day and asked Ty: "What's the matter with major league baseball these days?".... Old Ty holed a six-footer and came back: "Only trouble is, there are not enough major league ball players.".... Boy what a mouthful!.... Extra!.... Latest to be mentioned for Steve O'Neill's Cleveland spot is Larry Gilbert, for 17 years manager of the New Orleans Pelicans (owned by Cleveland).... Henry Armstrong, the western featherweight, is pining for California, and how!

DECISION TO MAYOR IN FOUR ROUNDS

By The Associated Press.

BREMERTON, Wash., Sept. 15.—The old gray mayor, he ain't what he used to be.

That was the opinion of a thousand-odd constituents today who saw Mayor Jesse (Knockout) Knabb puff and wheeze to a four-round decision over the "Masked Marvel of Alaska" last night.

Out of the ring since 1907, Knabb essayed his comeback without the opponent he originally "chose."

Kitsap County Prosecutor Ralph E. Purves, 27, laughed at the 55-year-old mayor's challenge to settle their personal and political differences in the ring.

The "Marvel" contented himself with sparring and fending off the 150-pound mayor's haymakers. It appeared Knabb knocked down the "Marvel" four times in the last round.

The bout was delayed 15 minutes while the mayor hunted his lost fighting trunks.

BUYING GIVES BIG BOOST TO CORN

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Nervous bulges in prices late today carried September and October deliveries of corn up respectively 2½ and 4 cents a bushel. The bulges, which were not fully maintained, were due to buying by traders who were short of supplies to meet uncompleted contracts, and were influenced by indications that the market was threatened with a "natural corner." Today's dealings, however, were of comparatively small volume.

At the close, corn varied from ½ cent lower to 2½ cents higher compared with yesterday's finish. Sept. 1.05½ to 1.05¾, Oct. 73½c, Dec. 43½c to 63½c, wheat ¾c to ¾c down, Sept. 1.02½ to 1.03, Dec. 1.04¼ to 1.04½, and oats unchanged to ¼ off.
